OBITUARIES

ROSSBACH

Longtime Cleveland area coach Charles Ray "Chuck" Rossbach, Sr. of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, passed away Sept. 23, 2025, in Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

He was 93.

After working as a design draftsman for Cleveland Graphite Bronze in the late 1950s, and teaching drafting at John Adams High School in the 1960s, Chuck shifted his career path to follow his true passion.

Chuck began coaching figure and freestyle ice skating in 1963, and over the course of his 60-plus year career, taught and instructed thousands of students, many of whom he would remain close with, and their families.

He earned the rating of master coach from the Professional Skaters Association in figure and freestyle skating and was appointed skating director for the city of Shaker Heights from 1973 to 1993.

In 2014, the atrium of Thornton Park Ice Rink was named in his honor, where a plaque and bust of his likeness are displayed. The Chuck Rossbach Learn to Skate USA Competition is held there; the 21st annual event took place in December of 2024. His love of the rink and enthusiasm to instruct transcended his students' generational, financial and socioeconomic backgrounds. He believed he could teach anyone to skate — and gift them with the love of the art form.

All three of Chuck's children grew up on the ice, with two of them pursuing it professionally, continuing his legacy in their own communities.

Chuck's love of skating began in childhood, rolling down the sidewalks of his neighborhood with metal roller skates strapped to his shoes.

Following his high school graduation, Chuck joined the United States Air Force and served in the Korean War from 1952 to 1956 as a cryptographer with top secret clearance, stationed in Nagoya and Tokyo, Japan.

While overseas, Chuck took his love for skating on roller rinks to the ice. Still new to ice skating, he practiced in his free time and quickly distinguished himself, earning first- and second-place finishes in two local skating competitions.

Chuck met Claire Kelly after returning to the United States, while she was working at the snack bar at a local roller rink, and they soon fell in love. They were married on August 3, 1957.

The married couple, both having formally traded their roller skates for ice skates, went on to win silver medals as a pair at the Midwestern Figure Skating Championships in 1959 and 1960.

In the summer of 1973, Chuck, accompanied by Claire, led 10 of his Cleveland skating students on a memorable trip to Villars-sur-Ollon, Switzerland. Beyond the time spent on the ice, the group explored the surrounding culture and landscapes, traveling into France and Italy to hike, visit art museums and experience local ice rinks together.

Chuck is survived by his wife Margaret "Claire" (nee Kelly); daughter Kelly Ann Adam (Michael), sons Charles R. Jr. "Chip" (Michelle Mangano) and Robert D. "Rob" (Alana); grandchildren Beau (Caitlin), Skyler, Charles R. III "Trey," Austin Adam (Autumn), and Tyler Adam; and great-granddaughter Ellie Ann Rossbach, due December 2025; siblings Donald Schuh, Deborah Lohman (Thomas); and many nieces and nephews.

OBITUARIES

HERSHBERGER

Hershberger and wife ... Ron Hershberger, the 29th president of U.S. Figure Skating and fixture on the Board of Directors and Peninsula Skating Club in the Bay Area of California, passed away Sept. 4, 2025. He was 91.

Hershberger and wife, Gayle, became part of the U.S. Figure Skating family in the 1980s when their daughters, Alison and Rhonda, decided to give skating a try. The family eventually joined the Peninsula Skating Club, becoming entrenched in the happenings of the local rink.

His interest and involvement soon spread to the national level, where he served on numerous committees and the Board of Directors.

Hershberger, an attorney, led the charge to bring the 1992 World Figure Skating Championships to Oakland, California, a daunting task that seemed unreachable at the time, Alison said.

"He just plugged away and plugged away and was able to get Worlds here in 1992," Alison said in a 2009 SKATING magazine article. "We were so proud of that accomplishment and had no idea it would turn into so many more years of dedication to the sport."

The presidency, Hershberger admitted, took up a large part of his and his family's lives in terms of time and commitment, but he wouldn't change a thing.

"It's been a huge honor, one of the highlights of my life to have served in this capacity at this level," Hershberger said. "It's been a wonderful experience."

Hershberger took over as president during a tumultuous time at U.S. Figure Skating, in which the association's leadership and headquarters staff became unsettled. He helped to quell the unrest and led the organization to four productive years.

"Ron has done a wonderful job in leading and representing this organization," then U.S. Figure Skating Executive Director David Raith said. "His character and fairness are exemplary and have served this association well."

DUNFIELD

(Obituary from Wood River Chapel)

Sonya Helen (Klopfer) Dunfield, a U.S. champion, two-time World medalist and Olympian in the early 1950s, passed away Aug. 7, 2025. She was 90.

Sonya spent her life sharing the sport she loved, touching the lives of and influencing many acclaimed figure skaters during a 65-year career in the sport. The mother to many, with her outgoing spirit, athletic achievements and kind and giving nature, leaves behind a large life filled with positive influence within her family, the world of figure skating and all whom she met.

She was born on Dec. 26, 1934, in Brooklyn, New York, to Oswald and Margarethe Klopfer. She was the third of four sisters, Ursula, Trudy and Anita. As a German immigrant family fleeing a rising Hitler, her parents and two sisters came through Ellis Island with the belief that America offered opportunity for all.

Growing up as a six-person family in a two-room cold water flat in Bedford Stuyvesant, Brooklyn, in the 1930s was not easy. But the family was strong-willed, hard-working, resilient and close. The way they all supported each other lifted them all up, never leaving anyone behind. Sonya credited her skating success to her mother's "sage guidance, fortitude and desire to help me achieve my dreams." The family made huge sacrifices to support her skating. The support by her sisters was always there, and they always took care of each other.

Her skating career started on the frozen playgrounds of Brooklyn with "double runners" where she started skating at the late age 9, then moving on to the Brooklyn Ice Palace where she showed true athletic talent which she honed with hard work, coaching and great spirit.

In 1949, at age 15, she became the youngest U.S. junior women's champion ever, going on to become the U.S. senior women's silver medalist in 1950. As a senior competitor she began to represent The Skating Club of New York. It was in 1951, at 17, when she reached her competitive pinnacle as the U.S. and North American senior women's gold medalist (again the youngest to reach such an achievement at the time).

Also in 1951, she was the bronze medalist at the World Figure Skating Championships in Milan. The following year she was the team captain at the 1952 Oslo Winter Olympics, where she placed fourth, just off the podium. But Sonya truly made her mark less than a month later at the 1952 World Championships in Paris, where she took silver but was widely acclaimed to have won the gold title by those there that day.

Her individual competitive achievements were especially meaningful. Because of family financial constraints, her coaches did not travel with her to these competitions, and her mother Margarethe was only able to accompany her to a few events. Sonya, unlike most of the skaters she competed against, did it on her own. Dick Button declared her "the strongest woman in figure skating." Competing in a post-World War II world as a German American in a judged sport was not easy.

With a competitive career shortened by financial constraints, she launched a successful professional skating career with Ice Capades, Holiday on Ice and Cinderella on Ice at Empress Hall in London. She was the headliner at the original opening of the Wollman Rink in Central Park and performed the final skating performance at the Roxy Theatre in New York City. Also, she performed at many benefit events in Madison Square Garden and Rockefeller Center.

She put great energy into her performances, which were notable for their speed, grace and balance, as she flowed over the ice with classic skating artistry. Famous for her incredible split jump, toeless Lutz and spins, she dazzled audiences around the world. Her personality and vitality on the ice were memorable. Sonya made her last performance in Legends on Ice at age 70. For Sonya, it was always the performance, not the accolades or medals, which remained meaningful and memorable.

Turning down a Hollywood offer to start a family instead, she transitioned from show performer to coach in the early 1960s. This is when she met her husband, Canadian figure skater Peter Dunfield, on a snowy evening walking around the lake at The Broadmoor in Colorado Springs, Colorado, in 1961. They were married on Fifth Avenue in New York City on May 16, 1964. A few years later they had two sons, Gregory and Roger, and in later years were blessed with four grandchildren, Taylor, Jordan, Nathan and Coby.

Connection with her sisters remained strong as all but one settled in the New York area with many memorable family holiday gatherings. Her family was important to her and she kept the ties close. She was an amazing mother and provider who always encouraged a positive approach to life, no matter the circumstance.

She was a skater's skater whose love for the sport only grew after her competitive and performing careers. Starting in the early 1960s, for more than 50 years, it was her coaching career which had the most impact and duration on the skating world. As a solo coach, or teamed up with her husband, Peter, they coached many international competitors at four Olympic and 13 World and national competitions. Their style and skills at coaching complimented each other. Her technical knowledge of body mechanics for figure and free skating was sought out by many champions. But it was the joy she felt teaching something new to that young beginner skater that gave her the most satisfaction.

OBITUARIES

Starting in the early 1960s, for 25 years, at The Skating Club of New York they had brilliant coaching careers together based in the United States and Canada drawing skaters from around the world. When the Midtown Manhattan ice rink closed around 1983, they moved to the Gloucester Skating Club in Orleans (Ottawa), Ontario. After completion of the indoor ice rink in Sun Valley in 1974, they began an annual summer residence there. They coached figure skaters at the training center every summer for 25 years, ultimately making Sun Valley their permanent home and final resting place.

Sonya's students included Dorothy Hamill, Elizabeth Manley and Yuka Sato to name a few. Her admiration, accomplishments and influence have been recognized with induction into the Skate Canada Hall of Fame in 2001, the Professional Skaters Association Coaches Hall of Fame in 2005, the United States Figure Skating Hall of Fame in 2009 and, in 2019, she was inducted into the Sun Valley Winter

Sports Hall of Fame.

She is survived by her sister Anita (Klopfer) Jorgenson; sons Gregory (Elizabeth) and Roger (Yvonne); grandchildren Taylor, Jordan, Nathan and Coby.

Donations in memory of Sonya may be made to the Sun Valley Figure Skating Club, P.O. Box 351, Sun Valley, ID, 83353.
